MICROCURRENT FACIAL REJUVENATION

Time Machine

Digital microcurrent system for wrinkles and skin laxity

The CellSonic Time Machine delivers precisely regulated, very mild microcurrents through conductive treatment gloves. The practitioner's hands act as the electrodes, following the natural contours of the face and body to stimulate the underlying muscles, improve tone and soften lines. For the patient the treatment is passive and relaxing.

No drugs, no needles, no surgery and no downtime. The results come from the patient's own tissue response, not from medication. A compact, portable console that costs very little to run.

CELLSONIC TIME MACHINE

FACE · BODY

4 phases	10 levels	15–20 min	2 kg
Automatic programme, runs without operator input	Digitally regulated energy, adjustable during treatment	Typical session (5–20 min programmable)	Portable console 265 × 112 × 235 mm

How it works

Digitally regulated microcurrent

A high-speed microcontroller continuously regulates the output. The current is far milder than conventional TENS, with a maximum delivered energy of about 1 W.

Glove electrodes

Conductive TM Gloves, moistened with Glovemate electrolyte, cover a large skin area and follow every facial contour for even, efficient stimulation.

Four-phase programme

Four waveform phases run one after another automatically, with dedicated FACE and BODY modes.

The treatment in practice

Facial treatment with the TM glove electrodes.

The Time Machine console with TM Gloves, ready for treatment.

Clinical results

De-wrinkling course. Jette Breitenstein, CellSonic Denmark.

Indications

- Facial wrinkles and fine lines
- Loose, lax skin and loss of tone
- Face (excluding the eyes), arms, abdomen, thighs, legs and calves
- Adults only. For trained physicians or qualified therapists.

Treatment protocol

- Session: 15–20 minutes
- Energy: 2–4 sensitive skin · 5–8 normal · 9–10 less sensitive
- Technique: 8-step facial sequence. Hold each zone for 15–20 s in every phase and repeat until the programme ends.
- Course: microcurrent is usually given as 6–12 sessions, then monthly maintenance

Technical specification

Technology	Microcurrent neuromuscular stimulation, microprocessor-controlled
Treatment modes	FACE / BODY, with dedicated waveforms
Programme	4 automatic consecutive phases
Energy levels	1–10, adjustable during treatment
Delivered energy	Max. approx. 1 W
Treatment timer	5–20 min in 1-min steps, auto-stop
Outputs	Single pair, one client at a time
Display	LED: set and real-time energy and duration
Supply voltage	91–253 V AC, 50–60 Hz (universal)
Power consumption	10 W max.
Electrical safety	Class II · Type BF applied part · IP20 · CE marked
Dimensions	265 W × 112 H × 235 D mm
Weight	2 kg
Operating conditions	15–35 °C · 30–75 % RH
Calibration / servicing	None required
Useful life (console)	5 years

Supplied with

- Time Machine console
- TM treatment gloves
- Inner insulating gloves
- Glove cable set
- Glovemate electrolyte
- Operations manual

Why the CellSonic Time Machine

Low running cost
No cartridges, tips or per-treatment fees. One Glovemate sachet makes 5 L of ready-to-use solution.

Face and body
Many professional microcurrent units are face-only. The Time Machine treats both.

100 % drug-free
No medication, injections or fillers. Mild microcurrent alone, with no systemic side effects.

Safe by design
Very mild currents, start-low titration, a live energy readout and an automatic stop.

Contraindications: cardiac pacemakers, arrhythmias, pregnancy, malignancy, significant peripheral vascular disease, systemic infection, dermatitis or eczema, broken skin, impaired skin sensation and uncontrolled hyperthyroidism. Do not apply over the front of the neck, the eyes, the chest or through the head. See the Operations Manual for the full list.
